1. Polish Army barracks are located at the western end of the town of Kozuchow, (Kreystadt) (5145N1538E) on the right side of the road from Kozuchow to Mirocin Gorny (Oberherzogswalden) (5145N1532E). The barracks were built in 1934 and are still in good condition. As of April 1953 one infantry battalion was quartered in the barracks. The unit is about 50 percent motorized. It has American trucks and jeeps.
2. In 1948 a Polish armored unit moved into barracks on the outskirts of Zagan (5137N1519E) between the road from Zagan to Zary (Sorau) (5138N1509E) and the Berlin-Zagan Railway. The barracks had formerly been occupied by a Soviet armored division. The barracks were built in 1936 and are still in good condition. The caserne complex consists of about 20 two-story barracks. Six T-34 tanks were once observed there. It is alleged that the Polish armored unit is still at the caserne.
